

Initiative

By: George Zivan

I can bow to the winds of chance or fate
And let them choose my path today,
Or I can use the power that's within me,
The will to bend the road my way.

Though there be challenges and conflict,
Though there be sadness and despair,
I am resilient and resourceful,
I know love and peace are also there.

The troubles in this world are many,
But when I rise above, I see,
There's nothing that cannot be fixed,
And it all has to start with me.
