

Be Humble and Kind

By: George Zivan

All of us should be humble and kind,
Even the high and mighty,
For no matter who you are,
Servant or master, vagabond or king,

You are all equally vulnerable to fate;
You are only one event away from disaster,
One touch of fate from the end,
One illness, one stroke, one accident.

And though you may control empires,
That event is not in your control;
Though you may think yourself a god,
Your destiny is with mortals.

Be humble and kind to others,
For your fate may be tied to theirs.
Live every day fully and with honor,
For you don't know which one will be your last.
